“ Dennis was a gentle giant with a big and caring heart. I remember being down on my luck without a job and he gave me one even though he could have hired someone with more experience. He took the time to teach me instead of yelling like most bosses do. I have used those skills in my career and now am teaching them to my son. His wife Cath is also a loving and caring person and my heart aches for her. I wish I could be there. Cath know that I love you and you will be in our prayers. The world has lost a great man. RIP my bearded always smiling gentle giant!! You will be missed by many. Until we meet again.

“ Dennis was one of the very few clients I had in real estate who would just call out of the blue to see how I was. He was a rare person who genuinely was interested in other people. I always felt that Dennis could do whatever he set his mind to with his many talents and his gift for figuring things out. He was one of my first clients in real estate way back when I was a greenhorn agent selling lots and he took a risk using me, something for which I will always be grateful. A good friend, he will be sorely missed. My deepest sympathy to all his family and other friends.
