“ What can you say at a time like this? You have a hole in your heart an empty space in your life. Mary and I were best friends until 6th grade later we reconnected and most recently face book friends. Elma was always smiling and their house was always full. Wish you peace and comfort you know she is in good Hands. Diana Schaffner

“ What can I say about a woman so vibrant and full of life? She was the rock of her family and full of faith. Even at her darkest hours and times, she could always find the positives in all people and all situations. She worked hard her whole life, and raised a large family of her own. Although married twice for several years at a time, she was fiercely independent, and supported herself for many years in-between husbands. She should be admired for that! I am so glad she came into my life, we became good friends and I will always remember her.
