“ Buddy, I am so sorry to hear about your dear wife. I can only imagine the emotions you must be experiencing. I did not know your wife personally but wanted to acknowledge your loss and share a consoling thought, And he [God] will wipe put every tear from their eyes and death will be no more, neither will mourning nor outcry nor pain be anymore. The former things have passed away

“ We didn't ever get to hang out much of spend a lot of time together, but Barb was still an awesome aunt to have and a great person to be around. Her laugh and smile will be something i remember most, along with her taking a van full of kids to the corn maze in napoleon after Connie and Max's wedding. (For that, she had to be a bit crazy, but then again she was a Groll, and had Karl for a dad. In saying this, I mean no harm. Karl always has been a jokester.) Barb will be greatly missed but forever in our hearts and memories. God bless her and the family. She's no longer in pain and getting to spend time up in heaven with her loved ones who went before her.##imported-begin##Katie Bowers##imported-end##
