“ To the Family,

Marge Gregory was a dear family friend. The Gregory's were close to our family as far back as the 1950's! My parents had such fun times with Marge and Jess and their "gang". As a little girl, I remember all the laughing and parties. Later, after Dr. Gregory's death, Mrs. Gregory offered steady and true friendship to both my mother and father, in good times and bad.

As an adult, I remember the love and support Marge showed me personally. In letters, or whenever I came back to Ohio for a visit, she never failed to tell me she was proud of me, and how she knew my mother (who passed away many years earlier) would be proud of me too. This meant a lot. I came to see that Marge was exceptional in her intentional kindness and love. I'm sure she touched many people. She serves as an example to me.

In recent years (before her car accident) we sometimes visited in the summer at my father's home. My dad, a WW2 vet about as tough as they come, always said with admiration that "Marge Gregory is the toughest person I know." He was referring to her fights with cancer over many years. She was a fierce cancer warrior who simply refused to be down for the count. We all have such respect for her.

Sending condolences and love to her family.

I enjoyed talking with Marge at Genacross. She always had a smile and expressed thanks for anything done for her. You could tell how proud she was of all her family.
