“ Just a couple of weeks I was at handling class with Pam Donaldson and this week I learned she has passed. I am trying to process this quiet friendship that ended so abruptly. For almost 20 years we both passionately bred our dogs...Pugs for Pam (and some Frenchies too) and Frenchies for me. We shared so much and often referred potential homes to each other. There are even some homes that have both of our dogs. Pam never failed to respond to a call and often helped me when collective legislative support was needed. As early as a couple of weeks ago we shared some of the ways we were feeling the pressure of those wanting to take our right to breed dogs away. Pam had a black boy pug she was looking to polish and I had kookie Sukie who needed some table manners and exposure. We laughed together and said see you next week...it was not to be. Rest in peace Pam. You will be missed.

“ I always enjoyed my social work classes with her, she also taught by my dad Mack Armstrong, that is how I met her first coming there at the college when I was younger. She will be truly missed.

“ I will never forget Pam as my first social work teacher in 2004 and my thoughts are with you all. I was so happy to run into her at Walmart a month ago and was so happy to catch up with her and see her smiling face.

“ To the family of Pam,
I am so incredibly sorry for your loss.
This breaks my heart. Pam was one of my first professors in this field and was one of the best, in my humble opinion. She was a wonderful therapist; so kind and loving and passionate. I loved that she had her own style and uniqueness, which just made her all the more endearing. I am not sure where I would be as a therapist without her as she was one that very much shaped my knowledge and my skills as a therapist. I also had the absolute honor to work with her at Catholic Charities and call her a colleague. I will never forget her for so many reasons. Our field definitely lost one of its shining stars but I know for myself and I imagine so many other students, we will carry her legacy of love and kindness for humanity and those hurting in what we do everyday. Thank you for everything, Pam; I will miss you and you were so loved! 💔😭

“ Donaldson Family,
Your wife/mother was such a great lady. I had the pleasure of being one of her social work students at NWSCC. She was a tough lady but she did it with love. Keeping your family in my thoughts through this time of need.

People come and go in our life but Pam will always be here in our broken hearts. She is my bestie for so many years. We drew strength from one another as we endured the sudden passing of our sons. We will cherish so many great times we were blessed to share. May her light shine bright on the life's she touched. Soar high dearest friend. Until next time 🍷🌹
