“ Dear Billman and Seedorf Families: Words can't express my sadness over Shannon's tragic death, nor my sympathy for you all. I, too, was privileged to call Shannon my good friend from Kindergarten through high school. I could always count on her fun-loving disposition on the playground, and her sympathetic ear in study hall. Despite the hardships and trials life threw at her, her natural grace, intelligence, kindness, and humor always somehow persevered. We lost touch with one another in recent years, and now I so wish that we'd reconnected. I would tell her something her husband, sons, family and friends already know: our lives have been made so much richer and happier because she was a part of them. She was a beautiful, shining soul and I know her example will help us all through the painful moments of grief in the weeks and years ahead. I will treasure my memories of her always. With profound sympathy, ~John Archey###imported-begin##John Archey###imported-end##

I remember when she told us all she was pregnant with Owen.And her wedding plans -I had never seen her happier. She and I were pregnant at the same time. My daughter is only a few weeks older than Landry. I was did not do well this time around and she would send me constant e-mails asking how I was and sharing her pregnant days with me-Her emails kept my spirits up during a rough time in my life. We are all so lucky to have shared in her life,even in the smallest regard. “ Dear Family, My heart is in pieces and broken for you ALL. I went to Denison with Shannon and we were sorority sisters and close friends. I cannot and imagine the pain and shock as I know how just I feel. During very rough times for me, in college, Shannon was the ONLY one to keep tabs on me - that was who she was. She was committed and loving and I am saddened that we've lost her physically. Her spirit will live on and there is no reasoning through this. I've tried and all I know is that God made us to love each other so I tell you I love all of you and pray for the comfort and strength to get through each day, each moment. Shannon impacted my life as she's impacted many but she was so ahead of all the students at Denison. Her sense of focus, determination and maturity. I hear her laugh and see her gorgeous smile constantly. I hold the memories close as I know you do. My entire heart and body aches for your loss. Lean on each other and those who are near by. It does take a village and we need a really effective one right NOW. I had just chatted with Shannon a week ago after being out of touch for a couple years. She was blissfully happy. I can't make sense of why we had that chance to talk but I am sure it was a God thing. All my love and thoughts and prayers now and always. I will never stop sending prayers your way. Love, Julie Hemker###imported-begin###Julie Hemker###imported-end###

“ I knew Shannon during our Denison days and I cannot picture her without a big smile, warm and welcoming. She was up for anything, but didn't accept bad behavior. Ten years plus after college, I am struck by what an amazing mother she must have been. My sympathies go out to all her loved ones during this time of shocking grief.###imported-begin###Katherine Stafford Butler###imported-end###

“ Sorry to hear about your family's loss yet again. My thoughts and prayers have always been with you. I wish your family the best in the future. When we lost our son, Stephen, we built a memory garden in his honor. It has helped many of our friends and family members deal with their grief peacefully. I hope you discover ways to alleviate your grief and pain that you are experiencing now. My best advice is to live life to the fullest. Try to get through one day at a time. “ To all of Shannon's family-My name is Shawntel and I knew Shannon from middle school to graduation. We were good friends through school and shared many of the same activities, one of which was dance. We took dance lessons together for several years and Shannon was an excellent tap dancer. We had a lot of fun together. Although I had not spoke with Shannon in many years, I am sure she was still the kind, intellgent girl I knew. I am deeply sorry your loss. May GOD provide you comfort in your time of sorrow.##imported-begin##Shawntel Hall-bazell##imported-end##

“ To All of Shannon's Family, especially her husband and two boys: I grew up with Shannon in Delaware, knowing her from Kindergarten to high school graduation. We played many a time at each other's farms, including those crazy birthday slumber parties with ougi boards and hide and seek in the hayloft and barns! I just heard about this tragedy last night and I honestly could not stop crying. I have 2 young sons that appear to be the same age of your beautiful Owen and Landry and this is every mother and father's worst fear. I am making a solemn vow to pray for your family every day, asking Our Father in Heaven to help guide your family with strength and love. I pray that Jesus and Mary will provide extra special protection to Owen and Landry, that they may still feel the love and warmth of their mother every day, and find happiness, joy, and the resilience of childhood within their dad and extended family. Mothers love their children more than life itself. To Shannon's husband: I am so so sorry for your loss. I pray God gives you strength each day, as an individual and as a father. Shannon was a beautiful person, smart, and kind. We had just found each other on facebook, but not yet had the chance to converse. I wish I had gotten to know her as a mother, but I know she was great at everything she did. I know these words don't help much but just know I am praying for all of you from this day forward. “ I was Shannon's big sister in AXO and roommate for a year at Denison. We hadn't spoken for years, but had just reconnected. I was excited to be back in touch with such a special person. I'm so sorry for your loss. I remember Shannon as such a vibrant woman, full of life and love. She was down-to-earth and practical but always supportive when I wasn't those things! She was a dear friend and supportive sister. She will be missed and remembered by me,
